PART 2: COURSE DETAILS

AIMS AND LEARNING OUTCOMES

Aims

The aims of the course are:

- To develop the intellectual skills appropriate for an honours degree.
- To provide students with an academic education upon which further personal and career development can proceed.
- To facilitate the development of transferable skills - of synthesis and critical analysis, as well as more general skills of oral and written communication, and independent research.
- To develop the transferable skills of critical thinking and problem solving.
- To foster a questioning attitude toward the histories, cultures and political systems which frame contemporary life.
- To use assessment procedures pedagogically as well as summatively.

Learning outcomes

The outcomes of the main award provide information about how the primary aims are demonstrated by students following the course. These are mapped to external reference points where appropriate⁶.

Knowledge and theory	Knowledge and Theory Demonstrate knowledge of and be able to critically engage with methodologies and questions common to the Humanities Programme. (L4⁷ and L5) Demonstrate the ability to use critical theoretical skills in relation to issues pertinent to the particular degree taken. (L6) Demonstrate the ability to employ interdisciplinary means of working in relation to specific areas of study.
Skills Includes intellectual skills (i.e. generic skills relating to academic study, problem solving, evaluation, research etc.) and professional/practical skills.	Skills 1. ⁷ Qualification award level descriptors are described in accordance to the Framework for Higher Education Qualifications (FHEQ) as follows:

Level 7	Masters degrees / Postgraduate certificates and diplomas (previously LM)
Level 6	Bachelors degrees / Graduate certificates and diplomas (previously L3)
Level 5	Diplomas of higher education and further education / Foundation degrees / Higher National diplomas (previously L2)
Level 4	Certificates of higher education (previously L1)

To be able to engage with others in a reasonable, structured and coherent manner.

To grasp essential elements of argument and respond in an appropriate manner to challenges.

Transferable Skills

To be able to synthesise and critically analyse information.

To be able to engage in effective oral and written communication.

To be able to act as an independent researcher.

Detail:

The Humanities degree is an interdisciplinary, skills-based, developmental, programme. It uses a variety of theories and approaches drawn from the disciplines of politics, philosophy, history, cultural studies and critical theory to investigate issues in the contemporary world. Themes explored include the origins and character of racism; developments in moral and political philosophy; conceptions of human nature; class, gender, ethnicity, and sexuality; the relationship between science and culture; literature and politics, global war and human rights.

By the end of Level 4, students are

[1i] familiar with some basic methodologies of the disciplines concerned;

[1ii] equipped with conceptual tools for Levels 5 and 6;

[1v] begun to develop interdisciplinary skills, drawing on different subject methodologies;

By the end of Level 5 students are

[2i] in relative command of key conceptual categories;

[2ii] familiar with the basics of the Western intellectual tradition;

[2iii] able to reflect critically upon 'the Western intellectual tradition';

[2iv] familiar with applications of disciplinary methodologies in an interdisciplinary context;

[2v] equipped with a solid base for the specialised courses of Level 6, in terms both of content and of critical and independent approaches to it.

By the end of the Project (Levels 5 and 6), students will have [3i] acquired a detailed knowledge and understanding of their chosen area of investigation.

By the end of Level 6 Options, students will have [3ii] consolidated, applied and developed the methodologies introduced in Level 5;

[3iii] gained knowledge and understanding of a particular theme arising from the contemporary world.

Skills:

In addition to the acquisition of the knowledge base necessary for an understanding of the above issues, the educational thrust of the degree is the development of analytic and synthetic skills, as well as more general skills of oral and written communication, and of research.

By the end of Level 4, students are

[1iii] familiar with the learning and teaching strategies of the degree, in particular the emphasis on developing their abilities to organise and present argument both orally and in writing;

	[1iv] equipped with the skills necessary to proceed to complete Level 5. By the end of Level 5, students are [2vi] able to read texts more closely, contextually and critically; [2vii] able further to develop their learning capacities through active participation in seminars and the production of increasingly rigorous written work; [2viii] equipped with the skills necessary to proceed to complete Level 6. By the end of the Project (Levels 5 and 6), students will have developed [3iv] the ability to carry through a sustained piece of research and argument; [3v] developed their capacity for independent and self-motivated learning; [3vi] the capacity to write clearly, precisely and coherently in an appropriate register. By the end of Level 6 Options, students will have [3v] developed their capacity for independent and self-motivated learning; [3vi] the capacity to write clearly, precisely and coherently in an appropriate register; [3vii] consolidated their analytic, synthetic, critical and comparative abilities through the effective preparation and presentation of competently researched oral and written work.

LEARNING AND TEACHING
Learning and teaching methods
This section sets out the primary learning and teaching methods, including total learning hours and any specific requirements in terms of practical/ clinical-based learning. The indicative list of learning and teaching methods includes information on the proportion of the course delivered by each method and details where a particular method relates to a particular element of the course.
The information included in this section complements that found in the Key Information Set (KIS), with the programme specification providing further information about the learning and teaching methods used on the course
Details of Learning and Teaching Methods
Lectures
Lectures, usually lasting an hour and a half with time for questions, are the means by which tutors disseminate information, provide particular perspectives on issues, make links not present in the reading, draw together the different themes of courses, and offer stimulus for discussion.
Tutorials

⁸ Please refer to the QAA website for details.

Tutorials provide central support for seminar and written work. Pre-essay tutorials, at which students are required to bring a detailed essay plan, help to direct reading and the structuring of the task. Post-essay tutorials, whether concentrating on an analysis of the work's qualities (predominant in Level 4) or a development of the topic in question (predominant in Level 6), or both, enable students and tutors to work together to ensure that particular strengths and weaknesses are identified, and, respectively, built upon and remedied. Students also have tutorials with both their seminar and personal tutors to talk through the strengths and weaknesses of their seminars performance.

Seminars

Given the emphasis on the development and assessment of oral, as well as written, communication skills, seminars are central to student learning. Active engagement in seminar discussion is an indispensable condition for the successful completion of the degree. In seminars, theory and data are collectively explored, and ideas are elaborated and tested. Seminar are assessed, and learning outcomes set in the seminar assessment are central to the completion of the degree.

Academic Development

In addition to the acquisition of the knowledge necessary for an investigation of these issues, the educational thrust of this degree, as of the whole programme, is the development of transferable skills - of synthesis and critical analysis, as well as more general skills of oral and written communication, and independent research. These skills are built into the teaching of the degree.

Project

Project work begins with an introductory lecture and seminar-based workshops in semester 4. A project proposal is assessed in the second semester of level 5, and the project continues through level 6 with regular one-to-one supervisory sessions until submission in the final semester of the degree.

ASSESSMENT

Assessment methods

This section sets out the summative assessment methods on the course and includes details on where to find further information on the criteria used in assessing coursework. It also provides an assessment matrix which reflects the variety of modes of assessment, and the volume of assessment in the course.

The information included in this section complements that found in the Key Information Set (KIS), with the programme specification providing further information about how the course is assessed.

The pattern of assessment encompasses oral as well as written work, and is informed by the learning outcomes set out for each Unit of Study (see Course Outlines).

Level 4 Assessment

For all Level 4 modules, learning outcomes (1i), (1ii), (1iii) and (1iv) are assessed by essays and seminar work, with the option of an alternative assessment in the form of a video log available in semester 2 on one of the core modules – HC455 Understanding Society in a Global World.

Level 5 Assessment

For semesters 3 and 4 of the Level 5 Core Module, all five learning outcomes are assessed by essays and seminar work. Learning outcomes (2i), (2ii), (2iii), (2iv), (2v), (2vi) are assessed by essays and seminar work; learning outcome (2vii) is assessed by essays and seminar work.

For semesters 3 and 4 of the Level 5 Option Modules, learning outcomes (2i), (2ii), (2iii), (2iv) and (2vii) are assessed by essays and seminar work, with the option of an alternative assessment in the form of a video log available in semester 4 on each of the Option Modules.

Level 6 Assessment

The learning outcomes Project are assessed by a substantial piece of writing completed by the beginning of semester 6, and an Oral Examination in semester 6, as detailed in the Project Unit of Study. There is an option of an alternative assessment in the form of independent study, which is assessed by either a substantial piece of written work or written work plus audio and/or visual presentations of reports.

For all Level 6 option modules, learning outcomes (3ii), (3iii), and (3iv) are assessed by essays and seminar work; learning outcomes (3i), (3v), (3vi) and (3vii) by essay and seminar work.

General Comments on forms of Assessment:

Essay Assessment

Essays are assessed in relation to key learning outcomes of the course, with particular emphasis on the student's ability to:

- (i) produce a clearly structured and cogently argued essay;
- (ii) draw on a range of interdisciplinary resources and demonstrate their relevance to the question at hand;
- (iii) identify the key issues and problems in their analysis, and in the upper range begin to question the assumptions of the texts, objects and issues discussed;
- (iv) demonstrate an awareness of appropriate concepts and knowledge

Seminar Assessment

The seminars and oral presentations are assessed in relation to

- (i) students' ability to contribute effectively to group work, responding and listening appropriately to the contributions of others,
- (ii) clarity of thought and of argument in presentation,
- (iii) knowledge of key concepts and arguments in relation to required reading.

Project

Students are expected to display all their acquired skills in the completion of a 10,000 word project, submitted in the last semester of the third year. This project work commences in semester 4 (the second semester of the second year) with workshops on the ways to select, prepare for, and complete a piece of research work. Students work on their project for eighteen months and are expected to become experts in their chosen field. They receive regular guidance from their project supervisor.

Projects take the form of standard academic dissertations or an independent study.

An Independent Study is a project which encourages a student to demonstrate initiative in the treatment of problems, the relation of academic skills to the wider, non-academic world, and a mature reflection upon learning processes. It issues in either a substantial piece of written work or written work plus audio and/or visual presentations of reports. It is distinguished from the dissertation in the demands that it must relate to the wider, non-academic world and involve explicit reflection upon the processes of learning which the student experiences.

PART 3: COURSE SPECIFIC REGULATIONS

COURSE STRUCTURE

This section includes an outline of the structure of the programme, including stages of study and progression points. Course Leaders may choose to include a structure diagram here.

PROGRAMME STRUCTURE

The course is delivered across three Levels and it is structured around two main types of modules: Core and Option.

Core modules are compulsory for all Humanities Programme students. Students will choose Option modules from across the Programme. All Option modules belong to and form a Pathway. Each pathway has its own, unique set of Option modules and allows the students to specialise on the topics that interest them most. Each Pathway consists of two level 5 option modules (in first and second semester respectively) and one level 6 option module. The 3 option modules that constitute a pathway are developmental – each one builds on and presumes the knowledge, conceptual tools and understanding developed in, the preceding option module. At the end of Level 4 students are introduced to the different Option pathways and they pick those that are closest to their interests. They start their Option pathway's modules in Level 5.

Level 4

At Level 4 students take six compulsory one semester modules: Historical Inquiry (20 credits), Philosophical Inquiry (20 credits) and Studying Cultures (20 credits), and Democracy: From Athens to Baghdad (20 credits), Understanding Society in a Global World (20 credits) and Approaching Narratives (20 credits).

Level 5

At Level 5 students take a two semester compulsory Core module on 'Critical Traditions in Western Thought' and four modules from Option pathways. Each module carries 20 credits.

Level 6

At Level 6 students take the two Options which follow on from their Level 5 Options, and continue work on Projects. The completed project is submitted in the second week after the Easter Vacation, after which students prepare for their oral exams.

The compulsory and optional modules on the course are shown below.

EXAMINATION AND ASSESSMENT REGULATIONS

Please refer to the Course Approval and Review Handbook when completing this section.

The examination and assessment regulations for the course should be in accordance with the University's General Examination and Assessment Regulations for Taught Courses (available from staffcentral or studentcentral).

Specific regulations which materially affect assessment, progression and award on the course e.g. Where referrals or repeat of modules are not permitted in line with the University's General Examination and Assessment Regulations for Taught Courses.

The course regulations are in accordance with the University's General Examination and Assessment Regulations (available from the school office or student central).

Exceptions required by PSRB

These require the approval of the Chair of the Academic Board
